South-Carolina GAZETTE.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 3, 1772.

CHARLES-TOWN: Printed by T. POWELL & Co. at the Printing-Office near the EXCHANGE.

Mr. POWELL,

IN an additional Supplement, published by Mr. CROUCH on Friday last, is an Extract of a Letter from some Person in Pensacola, to his Friend at Kingston in Jamaica, wherein the Circumstances of Mr. Harrison's Death are told in Terms equally false and injurious to the Reputation of Lieutenant Thomas: Therefore, if no Person has refuted that Writer's Malice (for many can do it) be pleased to insert the following Particulars.

"Mr. Thomas was first attacked, unarmed, by Mr. Harrison's Partner, and with Difficulty escaped into his own House; from whence he immediately returned, with his Sword under his Arm.—He remonstrated in vain with his Antagonist of his Injustice; but was answered with repeated Thrusts, aggravated by the most illiberal Abuse. Mr. Thomas acted entirely on the Defensive, and, to convince him he had no sanguine Intentions, disarmed him without a Wound.

"Mr. Harrison, stung with his Partner's Disgrace, made a furious Assault upon Mr. Thomas, who only parried and avoided his Thrusts, beseeching him to desist, and retreating as he spoke; but the other pressed on him with greater Violence, and wounded him twice.—Lieutenant Thomas, contrary to his usual Impetuosity, appeared more composed, as the other grew more enraged, and continued to retreat till he found one of his Feet entangled in a Stool or Bench, that stood behind him; when he called out to Mr. Harrison to guard himself, for his own Safety made it necessary for him to pass through him.—This was the first and only Thrust; which, entering at his Neck, reached the spinal Marrow, and instantaneously deprived him of Life."

The above Particulars are the Substance of the Affidavits which were taken upon the Occasion, Duplicates of which are now in the Possession of a Gentleman in this Town. And I assure you, that I have no other Motive in this Information, but to undeceive the Public respecting the Conduct of a Person, whose known Irascibility of Temper may have influenced them to give too hasty a Credit to abominable Falsehood and Slander.

I am, SIR,

Mr. POWELL,

The Loss that a worthy Gentleman of this Town lately sustained, in the Death of a very amiable Wife, gave Rise to the following Thoughts; which I should be glad to see inserted in your next Gazette. Yours, &c. CLIO.

THOUGHTS on a CHURCH-YARD.

The Man how blest, who, sick of gaudy Scenes,
(Scenes apt to thrust between us and ourselves!)
Is led by Choice to take his fav'rite Walk,
Beneath Death's gloomy, silent, Cypress Shades,
Unpierc'd by Vanity's fantastic Ray;
To read his Monuments, to weigh his Dust,
Visit his Vaults, and dwell among the Tombs.
YOUNG'S NIGHT THOUGHTS.

THE Clock strikes Twelve! the busy World's at Rest,
No Cares of Life my pleasing Thoughts molest:
Ye Trifles light as Air no more intrude,
Nor damp those Joys that flow from Solitude;
The Noise of Commerce, and the Pomp of State,
Time will destroy, and Death obliterate;
But Man's immortal Soul shall ne'er expire,
Though Worlds dissolve in elemental Fire.
O may the noble Theme my Thoughts employ,
Convinced how vain is each sublunary Joy;
And may these awful Tombs that strike my Eye,
Teach me to live, that I may learn to die.
Now while the blooming Landskip's veil'd from Sight,
And Heav'n's high Concave glows with starry Light;
Whilst balmy Sleep seals up the weary'd Eye,
I'll view these Mansions of Mortality.
Silence prevails! I tremble as I tread
O'er the cold turfed Dwellings of the Dead:
Kings, Princes, Statesmen, Heroes, all must yield
To Death, tho' great in Cabinet or Field:
His dreadful Summons none can disobey,
Nations submit to his despotic Sway:
If then his Dart dissolves all human Ties,
The truly Virtuous are the truly Wise.
This Stone, a Monitor to human Pride,
Just shys to whom Leander was ally'd;
He liv'd to Twenty, and that then he died.
Must it, thou Pow'r Supreme, and must it be?
Won't Youth exempt us from thy great Decree,
Must Young as well as Old promiscuous die,
And rot in Earth?—Thus Reason makes reply:
"God has ordain'd, and his Decrees are just,
"That Man shall die, and moulder into Dust;
"None know their Period on this mortal Stage,
"Tis hid, deep hid, in the eternal Page."
If then no Age will shield us from the Sting,
That frees the Captive and dethrones the King;
How should we learn to prize the fleeting Hour,
And think on Death, while Thought is in our Pow'r!
Learn hence, ye Young, no longer Vice pursue,
A moral Lecture this, design'd for you;
Court not those Pleasures, which possessing cloy,
Nor forfeit Heaven for a sensual Joy;
In Virtue's Paths true Happiness you'll find,
Thence ever flow Serenity of Mind:
She smooths the rugged Paths of Life below,
And leads the Soul beyond the Rack of Woe.
Sculpter'd on yonder monumental Stone,
In modest Terms to this Effect is shewn:
Trav'ller let fall the sympathizing Tear,
[illegible]
Whose every Action spoke an upright Soul,
And Christian Virtues dignify'd the Whole.
One Day Miranda's well, with all might vie,
Health in her Cheek and Pleasure in her Eye;
The next (so frails this mortal State of Man)
A Fever baffles ev'ry favourite Plan;
Med'cines are tried, but Art will not avail,
Her Looks are languid, and her Spirits fail;
Near and more near the King of Terror draws,
Whose Dart is arm'd by Heav'n's eternal Cause;
Whilst rich in Faith she meets her final Fate,
Prepar'd to launch into a happier State;
Where Death no longer holds his sceptre'd Sway,
But all is Life, and everlasting Day.
Now weeping Friends surround the dying Bed,
Their Looks declare all Hopes of Life are fled:
The Child, o'erwhelm'd with unaffected Tears,
Runs to Papa, and lisps her tender Fears;
Who mute with Sorrow, heaves the Heart-felt Sigh,
Whilst the big Grief flows copious from his Eye:
Strengthen'd by Fortitude's most potent Aid,
She looks for Laurels that will never fade;
And calmly waits for that tremendous Hour,
When Death shall lose his Sting, the Grave its Pow'r;
Griev'd to behold her Spouse oppress with Woe,
She sooths his Sorrow, bids it cease to flow;
Then trusts in God, All-merciful, All-wise;
The Pulse of Life stands still, she gasps, she dies!
Her active Soul, unconscious of Decay,
No longer animates a Form of Clay,
But soars to Heaven with immortal Wings,
Where shouting Seraphs praise the King of Kings.
Corinna, virtuous, sensible, and fair,
Tho' once so charming, now lies buried here;
The Lilly's wither'd, and the Rose's fled,
The Cobweb Veil is drawn, and she is dead.
Here the afflicted Wretch forgets his Pain;
Here the Ambitious thirst no more for Gain;
For Rich and Poor, the Monarch and the Slave,
Crumble to Atoms in the silent Grave.
Vain then is every sordid worldly Scheme,
Man's Air-built Castles vanish as a Dream;
In vain we seek true Happiness below,
When Life at best is but a Scene of Woe.
Will Riches shield us from the Storms of Fate,
Or is it Splendor makes us truly great?
Shall the proud Tyrant keep Mankind in Awe,
And shall not he submit to Nature's Law?
Thou Thing of Earth, thou Insect of an Hour,
When Death approaches where's thy boasted Pow'r?
Thy Greatness falls to abject Worms a Prey,
Thou sleep'st in Death until the final Day;
When through Creation's Bounds the Voice of God
Shall make all Nature to her Centre nod;
Before whose awful Presence Mountains flee,
And own his great omnipotent Decree.
Those Stars, that gild yon vast ethereal Frame,
Shall fall, and falling shall his Might proclaim;
Whilst dread, tremendous Peals of Thunder roll,
And shake a sinful World from Pole to Pole.
Then Adam's numerous Sons shall quit the Tomb,
To meet their last irrevocable Doom.
The Just shall join the shouting heav'nly Choir,
While Sinners perish in a World of Fire.
Perhaps! alarming Thought! that Moment's near,
When I shall be like those that moulder here;
For should the Tyrant aim his Dart at me,
Youth's but a poor, an insufficient Plea;
The Debt of Nature I was born to pay,
But know not when, To-Morrow or To-Day.
Taught by the Frailty of this mortal State,
O may I Wisdom learn ere 'tis too late;
Nor longer sail down Passion's fatal Tide,
But steer my Bark with Reason for my Guide;
That when in Dust I shall recline my Head,
Number'd and mingled with the silent Dead;
My Soul may wing her Flight to Realms above,
Those pure Fountains of exhaustless Love.

Mr. POWELL,

By inserting the following Verses in your next Paper, you will much oblige

A COUNTRY FRIEND and CUSTOMER.

On the DEATH of Mrs. EDWARDS.

WHY all this solemn Pomp of Woe,
This dismal melancholy Shew,
That rouses all my Fears?
What mean those piercing doleful Cries,
Those little, tender, weeping Eyes,
Drown'd in a Flood of Tears?

O Death, 'tis thine inexorable Hand,
Dire Trophies spreading o'er our Land,
Hath caus'd this awful Scene:
MIRANDA, in the Bloom of Age,
Expires a Victim to thy Rage;
Our Earthly Joys how vain!

But tho' she's wrapt in silent Shades,
Where Strength decays, where Beauty fades,
In Death's tremendous Gloom:
Her Fame, when circling Years are past,
Shall flourish unimpair'd, and last
'Till Time receives its Doom.

Transfixt with Grief her Spouse must smart,
Amazing Anguish tear his Heart,
Who feels this sad Divorce:
A faithful Friend, a loving Wife,
Snatch'd in a Moment out of Life,
To Grief adds double Force.

Children lament, you've lost a Guide,
A tender Parent from your Side,
A bright Example too:
Yet while you grieve, O be resign'd,
Copy the Virtues of her Mind,
Her Godly Steps pursue.

She lov'd the LORD, her Faith relied
On that illustrious PRINCE, who died,
For human Crimes t' atone:
Midst splendid Wealth and Affluence,
She liv'd by Faith, and not by Sense,
And died without a Groan.

She's gone, from all terrestrial Cares,
From Sin's Temptations, Satan's Snares,
To Realms of Light above:
Hail her, Seraphs, to th' empyreal Plains,
And let her join your heav'nly Strains,
[illegible] more and love.

Mr. POWELL,

AS a Report had been industriously propagated, that GEORGE FOWLER, who at present commands the Brigantine Betsy, whereof PETER SCHERMERHORN was Master, when it arrived here in March last, and introduced the MEASLES into this Town, was THEN MATE of that Vessel; and that HE (not SCHERMERHORN) was the Person who went ashore at Fort Johnson, and, then and there, upon Oath, answered the Questions required by Law to be put, before any Vessel can be admitted to pass the same; It was expected, immediately upon Capt. FOWLER's Arrival, that a Refutation of that Charge, or some Justification of his Conduct, would have appeared in ALL or ONE or other of the public Papers. No such Thing having appeared; while some lay the Fault at Capt. SCHERMERHORN's Door, others place it at Capt. FOWLER's—the Commander of Fort Johnson is supposed to know, by whom he has been imposed on, and the Community so much injured. If FOWLER is blameless, it is incumbent on him now to acquit himself; and if SCHERMERHORN is, he ought not to suffer any Imputation to lie that must prejudice his Employer: For the Public have so severely felt the last Introduction of the MEASLES here, that the universal Cry is, for AN EXAMPLE to be made, effectually to deter others, in future, from venturing to injure us in like Manner,

I am, Sir, Your very humble Servant,
A SUFFERER BY THE MEASLES.

SUPPLEMENT to the South-Carolina GAZETTE.

[NUMB. 1912.] THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 3, 1772.

CHARLES-TOWN: Printed by T. POWELL & Co. at the Printing-Office near the EXCHANGE.

It is the Perfection of Happineſs, neither to wiſh for Death, nor to fear it.

MILTON has very judiciouſly repreſented the father of mankind ſeized with horror and aſtoniſhment at the ſight of death, repreſented to him on the mount of viſion. For, ſurely nothing can ſo much diſturb the paſſions, or perplex the intellects of man, as a diſruption of his union with viſible nature, a ſeparation from all that has hitherto delighted or engaged him; a change, not only of the place, but the manner of his being; an entrance into a ſtate, not ſimply which he knows not, but which perhaps he has not faculties to know, an immediate and preceptible communication with the ſupreme Being, and, what is above all diſtreſsful and alarming, the final ſentence, and unalterable allotment.

Yet we, whom the ſhortneſs of life has made acquainted with mortality, can, without emotion, ſee generations of men paſs away, are at leiſure to eſtabliſh modes of ſorrow, to adjuſt the ceremonial of death, look upon funeral pomp as a common ſpectacle in which we have no concern, and turn away from it to trifles and amuſements, without dejection of look, or inquietude of heart.

It is, indeed, apparent from the conſtitution of the world, that there muſt be a time for other thoughts, and a perpetual meditation upon the laſt hour, however it may became the ſolitude of a monaſtery, is inconſtent with many duties of common life. But ſurely the remembrance of death ought to predominate in our minds, as an habitual and ſettled principle, always operating, though not always perceived; and our attention ſhould ſeldom wander ſo far from our own condition, as not to be recalled and fixed by ſight of an event, which muſt ſoon, we know not how ſoon, happen likewiſe to ourſelves, and of which, though we cannot appoint the time, we may ſecure the conſequence.

Yet, though every inſtance of death may juſtly awaken our fears, and quicken our vigilance, it ſeldom happens that we are much alarmed, unleſs ſome cloſe connexion is broken, ſome ſcheme fruſtrated, or ſome hope defeated. There are therefore many who ſeem to live without any reflection on the end of life, becauſe they are wholly involved within themſelves, and look on others as unworthy their notice, without any expectation of receiving good, or intention

Cuſtom ſo far regulates the ſentiments at leaſt of common minds, that I believe men may be generally obſerved to grow leſs tender, as they advance in age; and he, who, when life was new, melted at the loſs of every companion, can look in time, without concern, upon the grave into which his laſt friend was thrown, and into which himſelf is ready to fall; not that he is more willing to die than formerly, but that he is more familiar to the death of others; and therefore is not alarmed ſo far, as to conſider how much nearer he approaches to his end. But this is to ſubmit tamely to the tyranny of accident, and to ſuffer our reaſon to lie uſeleſs. Every funeral may juſtly be conſidered as [illegible] into which it is a proof that we muſt ſometime enter, and a ſummons more loud and piercing, as the event of which it warns us is at leſs diſtance. To neglect at any time preparation for death, is to ſleep on our poſt at a ſiege; but to omit in old age, is to ſleep at an attack.

It has always ſeemed to me one of the moſt ſtriking paſſages in the viſions of Quevedo, where he ſtigmatiſes thoſe as fools, who complain that they failed of happineſs by ſudden death. "How, "ſays he, can death be ſudden to a being, who always knew "that he muſt die, and that the time of his death was "uncertain?"

Since there are wanting admonitions of our mortality to preſerve it active in our minds, nothing can more properly renew the impreſſion than the example which every day ſupplies; and as the great incentive to virtue, is the reflection that we muſt die, it may be uſeful to accuſtom ourſelves, whenever we ſee a funeral, to conſider how ſoon we may be added to the number of thoſe whoſe probation is paſt, and whoſe happineſs or miſery ſhall endure for ever.

He that has given God his worſhip, and man his due, is entertained with comfortable preſages, wears off ſmoothly, and expires in pleaſure.

On PRIDE.

PRIDE, they ſay, was of heavenly origin; the ſon of excellence begotten upon imperfection, and being of all other vices the moſt refined and ſpiritual, was by ſo much the more ſubtle and dangerous. He grew up for ſome time unſuſpected among the Gods themſelves, under the ſemblance of dignity and ſplendor, till increaſing to enormous ſtrength and ſtature, he dared even to attempt the Throne of the ſupreme Jove; who, incenſed at his audacious proceeding, daſhed him with thunder-bolts from the height of Heaven into the loweſt gulph of Tartarus. It is uncertain how long he wandered there; but finding in thoſe forlorn regions the melancholy dæmon Diſcontent, he embraced her, and from thoſe embraces were produced a progeny of infernal furies, under the names of Envy, Malice, Hatred, and Revenge.

The Gods having at a certain period reſolved to make human beings, Pride, inſtigated by his childen, quitted the doleful abyſs, where he and his helliſh offſpring had been pent, and reſolved to roam over the new created earth. He had a moſt inſinuating addreſs, and ſo artful a method of ingratiating himſelf into the affections of mankind, that the more they were familiar and acquainted with him, the greater opinion each entertained of his own accompliſhments, and the leſs of thoſe of other men, valuing his perfections juſt in that ſcale wherein Pride was pleaſed to rate them; not that he was known by this name to any particular perſon at the time he converſed with him: It is true, mankind had been ſufficiently warned, that there did exiſt ſuch a being, who was a moſt cunning ſeducer and deſtroyer, yet ſo great was his artifice, that though almoſt every one knew him preſently, and expreſſed reſentment when they obſerved him intimate with another, no ſooner did Pride apply to each by himſelf, than he now no longer appeared in his proper form; and though plainly diſcernible to all that were about the perſon with whom he was immediately converſant, yet to him he was either totally inviſible, or elſe appeared in the ſhape of Merit and Deſert, perſonages which almoſt every one ſuppoſed to be conſtantly about himſelf, and with which, in ſpite of their diſcernment, ſo wonderful was his talent in gaining upon the affections, it is averred for fact, he has often made acquaintance to their great injury and detriment, for having a very baneful breath, he has always in a cloſe converſation long continued, ruined the bloom of their complexion, and inclined them very faſt towards a decay.

Wherever he once got admittance, he was ſure to introduce his children, who never failed to be the moſt tormenting fiends upon earth, and to none more ſo, than thoſe who careſſed and indulged them with exceſſive fondneſs, eſpecially Revenge, the youngeſt of the brood, and his father's darling, to whoſe kindneſs, however, he returned no ſort of filial affection, but at the time when Pride had expreſſed the higheſt pleaſure in him, would frequently bring two very ill looking dæmons, called Shame and Remorſe, whom he knew were above all others abhorrent to his father's eyes, to vex and inſult him. There was no office, profeſſion, employment, or ſect, where pride did not render himſelf moſt highly acceptable; though he never came, as I ſaid before, in his own name. When he paid his court to a prince, he always waited till he ſaw Juſtice ſtep for a moment out of the preſence chamber, than would he ſlip on the very ſame ſort of robes, and with a moſt impudent face, aſſume the port of the abovementioned counſellor, ſo that when he adviſed a ruler to murder, ravage, and lay waſte, he was often liſtened to, and gained ſuch an aſcendancy, as to drive real Juſtice away entirely from the royal ear and ſeat himſelf in its place. He had a large acquaintance among the fair ſex of all conditions, but was always admitted to them likewiſe under a borrowed character. To the young he would call himſelf Taſte, Grace, Beauty, Wit, &c. and as he grew more intimate with them, all thoſe real accompliſhments were ſure to retire in diſguſt. With ladies more advanced in years, he inſiſted that he was Piety, Charity, Religion, &c. and if he met with encouragement and credit, the abovementioned virtues likewiſe inſtantly departed. Perſuaded by him, the coward conſidered himſelf only prudent, the fool was convinced of his deep underſtanding, the covetous of his vaſt liberality, the pedant of his profound erudition, the coxcomb of his fine and irreſiſtible addreſs, and the plain coated man of the lowlineſs of his heart. Pride may be truly accounted the greateſt vagabond of all vices; in Heaven he can hold no place, for Pride is unjuſt; nor can dwell with beings that never aſſume above their reſpective orders. On earth he is totally diſclaimed, and is never received by his own appellation to the human heart: In Hell miſery will give him no reſt, but ever mortifies him. Thus Pride is continually ſneaking about the world; and Jupiter, to puniſh his rebellious diſpoſition, has condemned him to perpetual abhorrence and contempt.

SOUTH-CAROLINA.

By His Excellency the Right Honourable Lord CHARLES-GREVILLE MONTAGU, Captain-General, Governor, and Commander in Chief, in and over the ſaid Province, and Vice-Admiral of the ſame,

A PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS, by the Continuation of the Boundary Line between this Province and North-Carolina, which has lately been run, in Purſuance of His MAJESTY'S INSTRUCTIONS to the Governors of both Provinces, ſeveral Plantations which have been ſettled by Virtue of Grants from the Governor of North-Carolina, fall within this Government. IN ORDER to preſerve to the Proprietors of ſuch Grants, the equitable Right they have to the Lands mentioned therein, I DO, by the Advice of His Majeſty's Council, iſſue this my Proclamation; HEREBY STRICTLY FORBIDDING all the Deputy-Surveyors of this Province, from laying any Warrant on Lands for which Grants have been obtained in North-Carolina: AND notifying to all Perſons poſſeſſed of, or intitled unto, ſuch Grants, that they may have Grants for the ſame from this Government, on their producing ſuch Grants, without their perſonal Attendance at Charles-Town, provided Application is made for the ſame within twelve Months from the Date hereof.

GIVEN under my Hand, and the Great Seal of the ſaid Province, at Charles-Town, this Nineteenth Day of June, Anno Domini 1772, and in the Twelfth Year of His Majeſty's Reign.

Charles-Greville Montagu.

By His Excellency's Command,
THOMAS SKOTTOWE, Secretary.

ATKINSON & SYKES,

Being removed to the Store in BROAD-STREET, lately Mr. AARON LOOCOCK's,

Have imported in the laſt Ships from England,

A freſh and complete Aſſortment

OF

European & East-India Goods,

Suitable for this Province;

Which they will ſell Wholeſale or Retail on their uſual LOW TERMS for Caſh, in Proportion for Credit, or for Returns in CAROLINA Produce.

They alſo continue their STORE on Colonel BEALE'S Wharf,

For all Kinds of Northward Articles,

VIZ.

SUPERFINE FLOUR, in Barrels, Half Barrels, and Kegs; Ship BREAD; Milk, Water, and Butter BISCUIT; RUM, HAMS, SOAP, CHEESE, white FLINT CORN, at 2*s.* per Buſhel; OATS, STARCH, WINDSOR CHAIRS, QUEEN'S WARE, &c. &c. Which they import regularly by every Return of a Veſſel kept conſtantly in that Trade.

N. B. GREEN TEA, at 30*s.*—BOHEA DITTO, at 25*s.*—and fine LOAF-SUGAR, at 5*s.* per Pound.

Charles-Town, July 14, 1772.

THE Subſcriber is much obliged to his planting Friends, who, by landing their Crops at his Wharf for three Years paſt, have thereby introduced it to Buſineſs.—He acted as Factor during that Time, purely to prevent his Friends being Sufferers by their intended Kindneſs to him, as it was very induſtriouſly inſinuated, that Rice would not ſell at his Wharf: But as he is now well convinced, and flatters himſelf all his Friends are fully ſo too, that their Crops, landed in large or ſmall Parcels, will ſell altogether as well at his Wharf, as at any other in Charles-Town; and that any Gentlemen, principally concerned in the Factorage Way, will now have no Objection to receive and ſell Rice or Indico landed thereat: He therefore chooſes to decline that Buſineſs, finding it more than he is able to go through. He hopes his good Friends will ſtill land their Crops at his Wharf, where they may depend he ſhall take Care HIMSELF that their Boats have all poſſible Diſpatch.

As to the Safety and Conveniency of his Docks and Stores, he is ſure there are none preferable to them in Town in thoſe Reſpects, and few (if any) Barns in the Country are cooler and more ſecure from Fire; and it is almoſt impoſſible for a Barrel of Rice to be ſtolen in landing or ſhipping at his Wharf. Such Gentlemen as uſe his Wharf conſtantly, may depend on never wanting Storage whenever they do not like the going Price:—No prudent Planter but muſt be convinced, that this is a Matter of the utmoſt Conſequence to him, as many, for theſe three Years paſt, have had their Crops (when landed in Town) diſpoſed of very much againſt their own Inclinations and Judgments, merely for Want of Storage; and this he is ſure has been the Caſe, particularly this Year ſeveral Times, notwithſtanding the Shortneſs of the Crop.

Meſſrs. GIBBES & HORT,

Who have had long Experience in the FACTORAGE BUSINESS in all its Branches, and confine themſelves to that only, have taken the Charge of his Scales, and will tranſact their Buſineſs on his Wharf.—To theſe Gentlemen he begs Leave to recommend ſuch of his Friends who are not otherwiſe engaged.

Chriſtopher Gadſden.

N. B. Any Gentlemen in Trade may depend on not wanting STORAGE for ſuch Parcels of Rice as they purchaſe at his Wharf.

GIBBES & HORT,

ACQUAINT THEIR FRIENDS,

THAT THEY CONTINUE THE

Factorage Buſineſs in all its Branches,

(ON THE USUAL TERMS)

AND, for the Convenience of good Storage, will tranſact it on Captain GADSDEN'S WHARF; where they deſire ſuch of their Friends, as it may be agreeable to, will order the Goods they intend to favour them with, being convinced, that they will ſell as well there, as at any other Place in CHARLES-TOWN.——Conſtant Attendance will alſo be given at their other 'Compting-Houſe on the BAY.

Their Friends will be ſupplied with proper Boats agreeable to their Orders: And they hope to merit a Continuance of their Favours, by a ſteady Attention to their Employers Intereſt, eſpecially as they are determined to confine themſelves to the Factorage Buſineſs only.—And they aſſure their Friends, that they are not in any Wiſe intereſted in Captain GADSDEN'S Stores; ſo that whenever they ſhall think it neceſſary to ſtore for a better Market, it muſt be SOLELY with a View to their Friends Intereſt.

N. B. WANTED, to attend on the ſaid Wharf, a Perſon well qualified and recommended.

SAMUEL PRIOLEAU, jun. & Co.

Alexander Alexander

PROPOSES to teach the Art of SURVEYING in the Evenings, the enſuing FALL and WINTER, provided he can get a ſufficient Number of young Gentlemen engaged, to make it worth his While: And having furniſhed himſelf with a CIRCUMFERENTOR and CHAIN, he intends to accompany his Pupils to the Fields and Woods near Town, at convenient Times, in order to inſtruct them in the Practice.

As Lands in this Province daily increaſe in Value, the Utility of this Art muſt encreaſe in Proportion.—The Advantages of an accurate Acquaintance with it, muſt be very apparent to thoſe Gentlemen in particular, who are poſſeſſed of landed Property in the Country, as it might, at any Time, give them a ſatisfactory Knowledge of the exact Dimenſions of their own Poſſeſſions; might be a Source of rational Amuſement in their leiſure Hours; and might enable them to be ſerviceable to their Friends and Neighbours.

He intends to begin on MONDAY the 28th of SEPTEMBER, at Six o'Clock in the Evening; and gives this early Notice, that Planters, and others, at a Diſtance, may have an Opportunity of applying for their Sons before that Time, as his Plan will be carried on with much more Facility to himſelf, and Advantage to his Pupils, provided they can all be initiated at once.

 He has good Accommodations for Boarders, who may be inſtructed in the above Branch, and in any other he profeſſes to teach, without any additional Expence.
